IQF Tropical Fruits - Retail Packs (Examples)

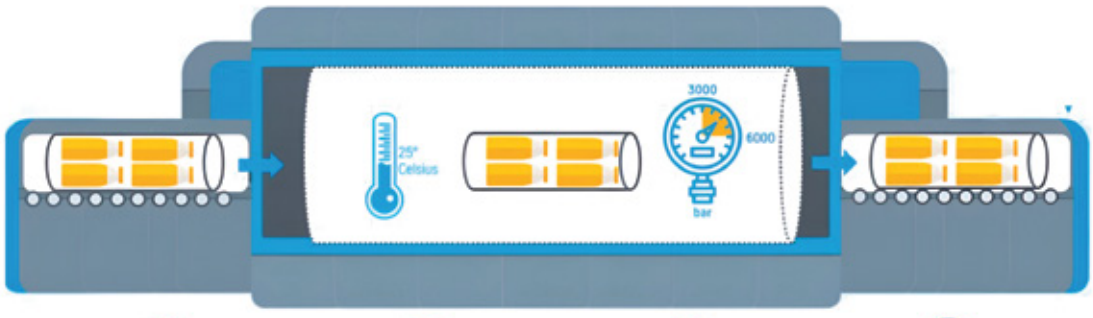

JUICE (COLD PRESSED - HPP , NFC, CONCENTRATE)

COLD PRESSED - HPP

What Is HPP?

HPP (High Pressure Processing) is a cold pasteurization technique, which is an extremely effective method of preserving packaged fruit and vegetable products under intensively high pressure to 6000 bar. This technique retains the taste, texture, nutrition, and quality of each ingredient in the food by killing harmful organisms and bacteria without heat treatment.

How does our HPP process work?

1. Containers with packed products loaded into vessel
2. Water filling and pumping into vessel up to 6000 bar
3. Few minutes treatment inactivates microorganisms
4. System is decompressed and safe product is ready for you

OUR HPP SYSTEMS : Two HPP systems for greater capacity and production flexibility.

HPP SYSTEM 01

HPP SYSTEM 02

BENEFITS OF HPP :

- Maintaining freshness
- Extending shelf-life
- Keeping the original taste
- Retaining nutritional value
- Enhancing food safety
